

ARTS FUNDING IN MARYLAND REACHES NEW HEIGHTS

The FY 2017 State budget proposed by Governor Larry Hogan and passed by the Maryland General Assembly in April included a record $20.3 million in funding for the Maryland State Arts Council (MSAC). Approximately 16% of our budget comes from the MSAC so this will positively impact the CCAC. Be sure to thank your State delegates for their support of arts funding – indeed it is an investment with a significant return.

Last year's yART sale was a HUGE success raising $4,000 by selling 'previously enjoyed' artwork, art supplies, and art books at garage sale prices. The Tevis Gallery was packed to the ceiling with everything from paintings, prints, drawings, photographs, and art books that were donated by many generous folks. It is a perfect opportunity for those who are

MEMBERS SHOW CALL FOR ARTISTS

Every year CCAC hosts a Members exhibit where any current dues-paying member can display one work of art. There is no jurying involved to enter, and artists do not need to submit images in advance. This is traditionally a well-attended show and a dynamic display of a wide range of styles and experience levels. Registration applications are available at the Arts Center or online. Deadline to register is Monday, August 15. Exhibit dates are September 1 to November 4, 2016.

LOCAL ARTIST'S WORK FEATURED ON DELEGATE'S BOOK

Every year the CCAC coordinates an exhibit of works by local Carroll County artists that are displayed at the House of Delegates Office Building in Annapolis. A few years ago Maryland State Delegate Barbara A. Robinson (D-40, Baltimore City) saw a painting of a farm near New Windsor by Lyndi McNulty. Robinson decided to use it on the cover of her newest book "Bend in the Road: Reinventing Yourself after the Death of a Loved One," which was published last year. McNulty is the owner of Gizmos art gallery in Westminster.
